NATURE RULES
FALL FASHIONS

Fur Coats Simpler Than Last Year and on Perpendicular Lines.

HATS SEVERELY PLAIN

Evening Dresses Notable
For the Scarcity of Material in Them.

By WINIFRED VAN DUZER.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Naturalness, running into simplicity, is the rule by which fashion measures her own this mid-November.

Autumn has worn far enough along toward winter to warrant fur coats. Not such smart little models as gladdened the heart of yesteryear. Simpler ones, made upon perpendicular lines, with no contrasting pelt for trimming; cape collars reaching the waist, all at simple prices ranging from $2,000 to $30,000.

Hats severely plain, tilted a bit at one side, decked with only a pair of paradise sprays at $500 the spray.

Imaginative little evening frocks, remarkable for what they suppress in materials and for what they express across faces of price-tags, cunningly smuggling beneath the edge a chiffon, indicating, like X, the place where dress leaves off and spinal column begins.

"Lotos-Lure" Evening Dresses.
Ah, those evening dresses! One there is reposing at this minute within the twilight-tinted salon of a fifty-seventh street mode-list, which well might be named "Lotos-lure," were it not better described in a trice with Gunda Dlin's uniform.

Nothing much before and a little less behind.
Even such it is for all its beauty.
The mannikin who put it on was tall! It concealed her knees but not her calves, and the corsage line appeared to be reaching for the hem, so low did it drop.

The device is an apron-like arrangement in one piece which covers front and sides and which is made of long, thin black and white bands, fastened upon net to form stripes an inch wide. It is held on the figure by a rope of twisted beads crossing the back and brought around to tie at the waist line in front.

Tinted Lace Flounces.

The open place where the garment doesn't meet in the back is filled in by a cascade of henna tinted lace flounces. They begin slightly above the waist and end not so very far below the rear surface of the wearer apparently being considered negligible and nothing to waste good chintilly upon.

This was the most striking garment I saw today as I wound through fashion's haunts.
But interesting as it was astonishing and in keeping with the new note of naturalness, the dress of modish woman's hair, all drawn comfortably over the ears and pinned in a soft knot at the back of her head. Genuine colorings gone with the gray threads.
Gone are the henna effects and the honey hues, though the striped markings of "touching-up" remain.
But these are disregarded, one might say they even are daunted a bit in simplicity of dressing.

dent's eldest daughter, has taken an apartment in New York City at 130 East Eighty-second street.

The Secretary of State, Bainbridge Colby, was the honor guest at a dinner which the minister of Uruguay, Dr. Jacobo Varela, gave last evening at the Pan American Building. The guests numbered about thirty and included the members of the Cabinet, ambassadors and ministers of the Latin-American republics and Judge John Barton Payne, has returned from a trip to Cincinnati.

Madame Groultch, wife of the minister of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, will be the luncheon guest of Mrs. Walter Tuckerman next Wednesday.

Frederick William Wile has returned to Washington from Providence, where he addressed the British Empire Club at its Armistice Day dinner. En route from the North he stopped at Princeton for the Yale-Princeton football game today. David Lawrence, himself a Princetonian, is another of the numerous Washingtonians who are in Princeton for the classic frolic with the sons of Eli.

Lieut. and Mrs. E. V. Isaacs en-last evening at their quarters at the navy yard after the weekly hop.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Whitehouse, of New York, have leased the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hew-son, at 1533 New Hampshire avenue, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Glover have sailed for Europe, where they will visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. René de Ma-reux van Swinderen.

Miss Edith Bacon, the debutante daughter of Mrs. L. S. Bacon, was hostess at a luncheon yesterday at her home in Connecticut avenue, when her guests included a group of the season's debutantes, namely, Miss May Taylor, Miss Ann Wickes Craven, Miss Adeline Oxnard, Miss Margaret Taylor, Miss Mary Louise Johnson, Miss Katherine Marriott, Miss Catherine Mary Smyth, Miss Myra Morgan and Miss Marjorie Gelm.

Mrs. Charles S. Bromwell was hostess at a dinner of eighteen covers last evening when the honored guests were Col. Frank Cheatham, U. S. A., and Mrs. Cheatham.

Mrs. Frederick Brooke will be ous workers in the Girl Scout drive

Rowe, daughter of Mrs. Lily L.
Lykes, of Birmingham and Blount Springs, Ala., to Nelson Shepard, of Washington, will take place Wednesday, November 18, at 4 o'clock.

Since the members of Mrs. Rowe's family are not able to be in Washington, the wedding will be at the home of Mr. Shepard's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Seth Shepard, Jr., at 3744 Huntington street, Chevy Chase. It will be very simple, with only a few close friends present. After a short wedding trip Mr. Shepard and his bride are to live in Kenyon street.

Mrs. Rowe, who has been living in Washington of late, is a successful writer and newspaper woman and was at one time with the Birmingham News and Age Herald. Her sister is Mrs. Anne A. Culp, of Birmingham, a niece of Mr. and Mrs.

ard is the son of the late Justice Seth Shepard, for many years chief justice of the United States court of Appeals. He served overseas in the Marines during the war, is a newspaper man and is at present the staff of the Washington Times.

MARY GARDEN
WINS PLAUDITS

Sings Classical Program at National. Cellist as Soloist.

Mary Garden, assisted by Gutta Casini, cellist, and Isaac Van Grove, pianist, sang at the National Theater yesterday afternoon under the management of Mrs. Katie Wilson-Greene. When Miss Garden began, the question is brought forth: is she an actress? On the concert stage Mary Garden is a law unto herself. She breaks all traditions of that branch of the singer's field; she sings native songs with her own distinctive interpretations —and the audience enthusiastically applauds.

Gutta Casini played with an artistic sympathy that caused his part in the afternoon's recital to equal that of the vocalist. His technique was superb, and in all of his interpretations he brought out undreamedof beauties from the compositions. Isaac Van Grove was an accompanist whom many pianists might emulate. Seldom does an assisting artist display such helpful and unassuming qualities.

The program follows: Miss Garden —"Air from 'Tosca'." (Puccini); —"Donde Lieta." La Boheme. (Puccini); —"Triste Ritratto." (Barthelemy); —"Lever de Soleil." (Brieger); "The Swing." (Hahn); "My Ship and I." (Hahn); "Lullaby from 'Jocelyn'" with cello (Gardner); and Air from "Mefistofele." (Boito). Mr. Casini——"Lullaby Song." (Schumann); "Tarantelle." (Piaatti); "Variations on a Theme." (Tchaikowski); "Elegie." (Chopin); and "Nocturne." (Sarasate-Casini).

MISS BETTY WERNER.

the photographer as she was about to leave for a morning gallop in the park.

What a Bright, Happy Place to Bring the Children
Santa Will Be Here

Big, broad, roomy aisles for the kiddies to get about in freely and crowd around old Santa with his jolly welcome and good nature. You know there must be plenty of room, because Santa Claus is always fat.

The entire Toy Store is arranged just to give the children the utmost pleasure and enjoyment.

And for the Toys any little boy's or girl's happiest dreams of Christmas morning could not picture such a wealth of them. There are heaps and heaps of them. Surely fairies must have been listening to all the wishes of little girls and boys and journeyed personally to Santa Claus' home and told him all about what they heard.

Here are some of the things you will see—Dolls with beautiful, almost human faces and real hair; Dolls with coquettish eyes and alluring smiles. Blocks with big letters on them in all sorts of pretty colors and many with animals and pictures. Toy Soldiers that stand up just as straight as big brother did when he wore his uniform; big Elephants and Teddy Bears; Cows that moo and Pigs that squeal; Birds that sing and Bears that walk, and all sorts of Circus Animals so that you can have your own circus.
Neat little Trunks that will hold all of dolly's clothes, and dolly's clothes and furniture for her own house, too. Tops that spin and sing or play a tune and all sorts of Animal Toys on wheels.

And then there are Toys that you can wind up and they will dash around the room as though they were alive; Building Toys that will keep the boy absorbed for hours and teach him how big engineering feats are accomplished. Automobiles with real horns to toot and funny men that jump out of boxes when you press the button. Wonderful Electrical Railway Systems; Big Toys and Little Toys—almost no end to them.

Even great big stacks of books, with wonderful pictures and stories that children will pore over until they go to sleep.

Toy Store, Fourth Floor.
